

Introduction

We are pleased to submit for your consideration the resumes of Alpha Rho Epsilon, the real estate association at the College of Business of the University of Cincinnati. These students will receive a Bachelor of Business Administration degree or a Master of Business Administration with a concentration in Commercial Real Estate.

We are proud of the Real Estate Program at UC because it represents one of the most discipline-integrated areas in the field of business. We bring together training in a multitude of basic core disciplines such as economics, marketing, accounting, finance, business law, organization theory and quantitative analysis and add topics in development, market research, investment analysis, valuation, site analysis, negotiation, geographic information systems, case analyses, and more. Our students also are given the opportunity to attend a number of external industry events where they are able to learn about current trends and events affecting the skills needed to effectively compete today.

We are confident that our students can make immediate contributions to your firm. We encourage you to contact the students presented in this resume booklet directly to arrange interviews or ask for more information. Thank you for your consideration.

About Alpha Rho Epsilon

Alpha Rho Epsilon is a student real estate association open to all University of Cincinnati undergraduate and graduate students. In partnership with the UC Real Estate Center, Alpha Rho Epsilon (ARE) informs students about real estate careers and introduces them to professionals in the commercial real estate industry.

Throughout the year, ARE hosts industry speakers, offers unique site tours, and provides numerous networking opportunities. Members are invited to monthly real estate Roundtables and various meetings and conventions throughout the year, and are eligible for student memberships with several Trade Associations. Alpha Rho Epsilon informs its members of available scholarships, job opportunities and real estate events. It is also a great way to meet other students within your major and make lifelong connections.

University of Cincinnati Real Estate Program Curriculum

Undergraduate Courses

Real Estate Principles (22-460-391)

The introductory course to the real estate program designed for majors and non-majors. RE 391 is designed to introduce the student to real estate career opportunities and the field of real estate by reviewing the basic concepts of urban economics and market analysis which affect land use, rents, and values. This course focuses on the housing market, buying versus renting, government policies affecting housing, the office market, and touches upon retail and industrial market trends. This is a survey course which includes some fundamental technical skills such as an introduction to cash flow analysis, financing, geographic information systems and valuation concepts.

Real Estate Finance (22-460-395)

Analytical techniques for evaluating income-producing property, sources of financing, loan packaging, and key financial ratios are reviewed. Investment topics include cash flow analysis, risk analysis, rate of return projections, Real Estate Investment Trusts and capital market trends. Computer spreadsheets are used in this course.

Real Estate Property Management (22-460-400)

The course focuses on property and asset management touching upon residential, retail, office, and industrial property. Addresses owner and corporate perspectives, landlord tenant law, and civil rights as well as budgeting and operational efficiency, marketing, leasing and portfolio considerations. Course includes field trips and guest speakers on specialized topics and team problems aimed at developing appropriate strategies and policies.

Real Estate Appraisal (22-460-492)

Theory and application of methods to value real property. Real estate appraisal reviews systematic methods to value residential and income producing property, influences upon market value, and appraisal trends.

Real Estate Law (22-460-497)

The nature of real property ownership rights, transfer of ownership, broker-agency relationships, land use controls and regulation are reviewed.

Real Estate Development Methods, Cases, and Negotiation (22-460-598)

This is the real estate “capstone course”. Cases and negotiation exercises serve to emphasize the integration of material from several business core areas. Topics covered include, real estate development including economic feasibility analysis, global economic trends, management of risk (financial, political, economic), financing strategies and alternatives, market research interpretations and data quality assessment, management of multiple team objectives and prioritization, quantitative modeling based on prioritization to reduce complex situations.

Graduate Courses

Real Estate Analysis (22-460-731)

The introductory real estate course that provides an overview of the field and a foundation for further study in the MBA real estate concentration. The course introduces students to the fundamentals of urban economics, real estate analysis and valuation. Specific topics covered include the property asset and space markets, real estate development, feasibility and market analysis, location theory, urban growth dynamics, present value mathematics useful in real estate analysis, plus introductions to real estate finance, investment and appraisal.

Real Estate Finance and Investment (22-460-742)

This course focuses upon technical skills required to value, finance and structure real estate transactions. Topics include: investment analysis for existing income-properties (pro-forma cash flow projections, financial ratios, alternative debt and equity financing structures, and risk analysis); ownership, taxation and financial structures; financing of real estate development; real estate in a portfolio context and the securitization of debt and equity interests in real property (REITs and CMBS).

Real Estate Development, Negotiation, and Case Analysis (22-460-851)

This case-based course focuses on development, leasing, negotiation, and asset management activities in a real estate firm. Construction financing and deal structuring are covered, as are recent property development trends. Students examine different negotiation strategies and models within the context of topics directly related to development and leasing, and they will participate in two structured role-playing negotiation exercises. Students will also gain exposure to the institutional real estate investment arena, including pension fund investment in direct real estate and real estate investment trusts (REITs).
